
Ensemble "Le Muse"

Le Muse is an instrumental ensemble entirely feminine formed by instrumentalists grown artistically in national and international orchestras and who alternate their concert careers with teaching at Italian music academies and music schools.

In the project "Musiche da Oscar" the formation is composed by classical musicians with the purpose of achieving sonorities as close as possible to the original theme proposed during the concert, and by a vocalist, Angelica De Paoli, who will be entrusted of the singing part.

The formation is directed by the conductor Andrea Albertini.

The proposed repertoire has been selected from the very rich production of the composer Ennio Morricone, choosing between his most famous soundtracks, following a temporal common thread, from the early 60's to our days with the soundtrack winner of the Oscar of 2016.

Each track will be presented by the conductor Andrea Albertini and enriched by anecdotes, curiosities, historical and biographical notes.

A series of images and clips of movies will accompany lot of the proposed soundtracks, adding an emotional "touch" to the concert atmosphere.

The concert, presented for the first time in may 2016, after the winning of the Oscar by composer Ennio Morricone has already passed the 200 replicas in Italy and abroad.
